50 Applications Received For Frosh Coed Advisers

Applications for approximately 50 freshmen women honorary advisers during the 1961-62 school year were received last week.

This is the first year the advisers will not be chosen on the basis of financial needs but on the women's own personal evaluation. Miss Dixie Evans, director of the women's residence halls, said.

The freshman adviser is a tie between University staff members and students who will become known to the freshmen helping them with personal matters, getting into campus activities, or perhaps getting academic tutors.

She will give beneficial suggestions about University life and be able to interpret UK policy.

Of the 32 advisers and five alternates to be selected, six will be placed in Jewell Hall, six in Boyd Hall, seven in Patterson Hall, and in Holmes Hall the number will depend on the number of freshmen. Miss Evans said there will be at least seven in Holmes.

The advisers and alternates will be selected and presented at "Stars in the Night," a program honoring outstanding women on campus, later in the semester.

Miss Evans said the responsibility of the freshmen advisers will be decreased because their number will be doubled. She explained that last year there was one adviser for every 30 to 70 girls. Next year there will be one adviser for every 10 to 25 freshmen women.

Following the announcement of the freshman honorary advisers at the "Stars in the Night" program the SC women will undergo

Basketball Band To Appear At Vandy Game Thursday

Fifty-five members of the Marching 100 will go to Knoxville, Tenn., Thursday for the UK-Vanderbilt University play-off for the right to represent the Southeastern Conference in the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament.

Bernie Shively, athletic director, made the announcement yesterday and said the band and its music are "just like the crowd cheering." The proposal had been under consideration even before Kentucky defeated the University of Tennessee Saturday night. Earlier yesterday Shively had said, "If Vandy takes their band, we'll take ours."

The Athletic Department will finance the trip with its 50 percent share of the game's ticket sales profits. The University of Tennessee will charge a fee for the use of their basketball facilities.

The game is being played at Knoxville as a compromise to provide a less partial crowd than could be obtained in Lexington or Nashville, Tenn. Knoxville is close to the Kentucky line and its college (UT) is a bitter rival of Vanderbilt.

The winner of the game will go to the first rounds of the NCAA tournament in Louisville. The play-off is necessary because Mississippi State, SEC champion, refuses to enter the integrated tournament.

Communist Party Sets Eyes On U.S. University Students

By JUNE GRAY
Kernel Staff Writer

American college campuses are the latest targets of the Communist Party in North America.

Capt. B. F. Francis, an Air Force psychological warfare expert on Communism who is lecturing here this week, says the Communist Party, U. S. A., launched a major campaign in 1959 to attract students and working youth to its ideologies.

After May, 1959, the main objectives of the party became campuses throughout the nation. They are now the prime targets for Communist infiltration and recruitment efforts.

The youth movement does not identify itself with the Communist party. As Capt. Francis pointed out in his speech last night, it tries to cover up its Communistic views by advocating reforms for public benefit. Then after the public has become orientated toward these liberal policies, the heavier party doctrines are introduced.

For this reason they appeal to the working class and their

Victor Borge To Be Here March 27

Victor Borge, whose show of music and wit ran for three years on Broadway, will give a performance at 8:15 p.m. March 27 in Memorial Coliseum.

The concert is cosponsored by the Little Kentucky Derby steering Committee and the Lexington Symphony Orchestra, Marietta Booth, publicity chairman for the concert, said yesterday.

Fifty percent of the profits from the performance will be given to the LKD scholarship fund in addition to receipts from the Little Kentucky Derby Weekend, April 28-29.

Borge has been labeled "the funniest entertainer in the world" by New York drama critics. His one-man show is a mixture of piano and comedy.

When he fled Denmark in 1940, censored by the Nazis for his comments about Adolf Hitler, he was the highest paid stage and screen star in his country.

Last September in Toronto, Canada, Borge appeared before an audience of 22,000.

General admission and reserve seat tickets will be on sale at the Student Union Building ticket booth from 4-5 p.m. all next week. They are also on sale at Shackleton's.

is not pushed now by this group because it does not feel that in an area where agriculture is one of the chief sources of livelihood the people are as interested in as many benefit projects as in industrial centers.

The program of Advance, the party's official name, is very flexible. Planning its program, it takes into consideration the characteristics of the particular community it is interested in.

On college campuses, Capt. Francis says, the leaders dupe college students into doing the dirty work for them.

A mailing list of persons whom they have previously contacted and who are either students or faculty members is kept by the party. Letters are sent these individuals to distribute among the student bodies, if he desires to do so.

To gain recognition in an organization, a party member will do a lot of extra work and as a reward, he is offered a position, usually the office of secretary or treasurer.

The office of secretary is preferred because this gives him control of the mailing list and the letterhead of the organization which he can use as a front for mailing his own propaganda.

The party also seeks to place its members in key leadership positions. One of the most desired positions is editorship of the student newspaper. They believe in mass influence, that one person in a favorable position can influence the thinking of many.

One method used by the party-influenced editors is playing up an organization that has fellow members in it.

Some editors are duped into giving support to this movement without realizing it. But Capt. Francis says, "Thank heavens that the editors who are not affiliated with the movement have good common sense which prevents them from being duped into giving aid unknowingly to this group."

The reason the Communist Party is putting so much emphasis on youth in America is they believe that only five percent of the total of American youth will go to college and graduate. Out of this five percent will come 95 percent of the next generation's national leaders.

If they can control the thinking of a few people in this group the next generation will be much stronger for Communistic principles.

In 1917, Communism did not rule one inch of land. But now one out of every three persons live under Communistic dominance.

"This is frightening," says Capt. Francis. It must be stopped. To stop this movement, students must have objective information which can be bought from government printing offices. If the student does not want to pay for it, he can write his congressman and obtain it free of charge.

"The success or failure of a democracy depends upon individual responsibility. It is up to the individual to study and keep adequately informed about movements which seek to destroy the established democracy."

VA Records Books For Blind Students

The Lexington Veterans Administration Hospital has received recording equipment for patients to make tape recordings of textbooks for blind college and university students.

The text recordings are provided by a joint effort of the State Department of Education and the VA Hospital in Lexington, Kentucky is the only state to offer recorded material for individual students.

T. V. Cranmer, director of the Division of Services for the blind in the Education Department, said the books being recorded will make the student's material available to him at all times. The old method of having someone dictate the material made the blind student too dependent on his reader.

The Division of Services to the Blind also furnishes tapeplaying machines and small portable recorders for taking notes. Students who are unable to purchase them will receive typewriters and "Braille-writers."

Those who will have use for the taped books and machines will be allowed to keep them.

According to Mr. Cranmer, the books are borrowed and mailed to the VA Hospital where they are recorded. The finished tapes and playing machines are then sent to the student's district counselor, who explains how to operate them. Upon completion of a tape, it is returned to the hospital to be erased and reused.

A. L. Pigman, chief of educational therapy at the Veterans Hospital, said that an average textbook requires five or six tapes or from 15 to 20 hours of reading. Mr. Pigman added that about 10 patients are recording the books at present. All of the patients have taken a course in oral expression.

Cranmer said that blind students in the state who are now enrolled in or planning to enter a college, university, or business school should contact the counselor in their regional vocational rehabilitation office to obtain the recorded books or other services.

Classes For Dieters

SAN MARCOS, Calif. (AP) — The Palomar College District board of directors has come to the aid of citizens whose physical dimensions have gotten out of hand.

The board approved a new adult evening course entitled "Physical Education for Mature Men."

What the course actually amounts to is dieting and exercising for the "flabby and forty set," says Dr. John Dunn, college president. But no credit can be earned, says Dunn except possibly from admiring wives or jealous business associates.

Campus Fashions Face Coed Analysis

By JEAN SCHWARTZ

"If you've seen one, you've seen them all."

This is the perfect conclusion to be reached after observing the way a typical UK coed dresses.

Instead of using the caste system to decide class as they do in India, a girl's status is determined by the number of searab bracelets she wears. If she wears none, well she can't even be considered. If she wears three or four, and they must be authentic, she really has class.

However, anyone who isn't up on their fashions would conclude that the poor girl had skinny wrists or dirty arms and that she was trying to hide them by wearing bracelets up to her elbow.

Next we come to the round collars and circle pins. Everyone wears these whether they have long necks, short necks, fat necks, skinny necks, or no necks. And, Heaven help the simple girl who wears her circle pin in the wrong position on her collar. This is almost as tragic as not wearing one at all.

On we move to those drunken skirts known as knee-tickers.

They should be called "male ticklers" because there doubtless has yet been a boy who hasn't gone in to hysterics the first time his girlfriend appeared in one. One male observed that he never realized that so many girls had such ugly knees. He now appreciates long skirts.

The list goes on including crew neck sweaters which completely hide everything that a girl has or has not; Chesterfield coats with velvet collars, and that wild hair-do known as the bouffant.

Halting The Exodus

Gov. Bert Combs announced recently that the state will establish a placement service for graduates of Kentucky's colleges and universities in an effort to keep more of them in the commonwealth.

In a letter to Kentucky college presidents, the governor said, "For many years we have deplored the loss of our trained college graduates to industries in other states. The loss is both economic and cultural. . . . It is reasonable to believe that with Kentucky's expanding industry there is even greater need for those who have been trained in our colleges and universities."

Gov. Combs is absolutely right and we applaud his action taken to partially correct the situation that is slowly depriving the state of its human resources. We hope, however, that the governor, the college presidents, and the others working on the program realize that merely helping degree-holders find jobs in Kentucky will not be a panacea for the problem.

Many talented young Kentuckians leave the state not because they cannot find work here, but because the opportunities are better in other states. The other states offer a greater choice of jobs, better working conditions, higher salaries and standards of living, and more chances to advance rapidly in one's career. That is why it has become almost trite to say that Kentucky colleges and universities train teachers for Ohio and Florida, engineers for the industrial North and West, and so on.

The only way to suppress this wanderlust of young Kentuckians is to make staying at home more enticing. The commonwealth's governmental, educational, and commercial leaders must see that the upsurge in efforts to industrialize Kentucky, raise its standard of living, make its government more effective, improve its education system, and make it a generally better state continues. When an improved Kentucky materializes, perhaps its college graduates will stop panting to get out of it.

Until then, it is doubtful that the situation will be changed by having a state placement service offer jobs to them, for the situation cannot be remedied while its causes still exist.

Horatio Alger's Waifs

Name-droppers come in assorted flavors, of course, which makes it rather hard to say which is the most obnoxious. . . . There is a bunch of characters (whose) specialty is referring to the Horatio Alger books. They want to know if you remember Ted the Bootblack, or Phil the Fiddler, or Julius the Streetboy, or Ben the Luggage Boy.

Now the whole point of this particular name-banding is not because these persons are interested in the nostalgia bit, or earlier American literature, or the life and hard times of Mr. Alger's waifs. Actually they are trying to suggest they also came up the hard way, while probably they never had it any tougher than lugging the coal scuttle up from the cellar or sifting the ashes.

The bid is not for sympathy, you understand. It's really a kind of vanity, the old democratic pitch about up from the ranks, and having to fight for a two-car garage, wall-to-wall carpeting and membership in the golf club. So when you come to someone like Ralph Gardiner of New York, who really knows his Alger—all 118 volumes—and still believes in the strive and succeed ideal, it's quite a relief from the name-droppers.

Mr. Gardiner is giving of his collection of Algeriana to New York boys' clubs because he believes even in this space age, some youngsters will take Mr. Alger seriously and keep their noses to the grindstone rather than the steering wheel of a jalopy.

It would be slanderous to say we do not have our hardworking young people today. But the more we can recruit to their ranks, the less flabby our culture will be in succeeding generations. It's easy to laugh at the Alger books nowadays. But what is worth noting is that a few generations ago the people who built this country did strive and did succeed in the face of hardships identical with Alger's urchins—and that the 100 million copies of his 118 titles held a mirror up to American life with a truth that is a little discomfiting in these later, easier days.

Shame On Us

To The Editor:

Shame on you, young man! You have not only lowered your own personal status in the eyes of this community, but you have brought shame and reproach upon the better interests of this noble institution as well. Alas, how can a man of your intelligence speak, with such an obvious air of authority, against the heroic efforts of that sacred cult, the Judiciary Board of Student Congress?

Mr. Editor, you actually said that ". . . the Police Department put on a good show for the committee." Why, sir, just seeds of times I have casually walked up to Lexington police officers and mildly commented, "Sir, in my opinion, you possess many of the characteristics noted in the character of that lowly creature, the jack-ass," in order to be courteously and politely handcuffed and escorted to the Rock Hotel for the night because the landlady had failed to change my sheets and clean the room for two days. And the chief—he always welcomes me with the glad hand and a big grin. The food, too—quite out of this world I must say.

Lo, at second glance, I have discovered another loophole in your critical appraisal, dear heart. You do make such violent remarks! Yesterday at 12:30 p.m. I witnessed a highly competitive marbles tournament in which members of the organization in question participated. And guess where? Believe it or not, right in the middle of Rose Street, between the Columbia Avenue traffic light and the Fine Arts Building! So you see, these loyal servants of mankind are risking life and limb in order to get the facts for us.

Lack of space, sir, will not permit me to further expose your tyrannical objections, but may I call your attention to the following recent actions on the part of the organization publicly denounced by your publication:

1. Coach Collier's office, it was rumored, has received applications from all male members of SC for permission to play at least one half of a regularly scheduled football game next fall.

2. A "beach" party has been planned for April 31 in the M&O Building, at which time three freshmen who failed to make their standings last semester will be drowned in a bathtub.

3. A committee of 13 has been appointed to sit in the east end of the balcony of Memorial Coliseum during the State High School Basketball Tournament in order to study the effect of falling plaster on student fans.

Now, Mr. Editor, won't you humble your journalistic self enough to apologize to those who may have been offended by your thoughtless remarks?

BON C. TODD

For Free Press

To The Editor:

As of late, the Kernel has printed many letters pro and con over the recent CORE case. Many of these letters seem to think that other articles printed in the Kernel were misrepresentative and/or not true to the facts. It must be realized that an overzealous person in a strategic position with extreme pressures on him will many times commit the unpardonable sin of making a statement he may wish to repudiate later on. However, in the case of a newsman, these repudiations must not be too numerous or else he will lose face and his paper, too, will suffer. It seems that this could (I am not saying it is) be the case in the recent articles on the CORE news story and follow-ups. Like all good newspapers, the Kernel must try to hold as true to the facts as is possible and still present a story that will attract one's attention and hold his interest. Still, a majority of the letters in THE READERS' FORUM go against our dear old news sheet.

May the policy of freedom of expression continue to be extended by the Kernel to those who wish to exercise it through the printed word, especially in THE READERS' FORUM. However, one must be somewhat discriminating in his comments about others similarly expressing their beliefs and acting to support their ideals, for these are the basic reasons that we fight to keep our nation from being forced to abide by doctrines that will prohibit such expressions and actions. Remember, the Kernel is the voice of the student body of a great university and the thoughts and ideas put forth by personnel on the Kernel staff and in THE READERS' FORUM go far in creating an impression on others on this campus and in the surrounding communities. You have a great power of persuasion by what you print and how accurate it is besides being "newsy." Use this power wisely to represent all so each will have an equal opportunity to attain his ultimate goals in life. Only by this can the true spirit of free press be maintained and strengthened.

It is well for those who wish to disturb the tranquility of this community by active and unlawful action against proprietors who exercise their legal right to select whom they choose as patrons, to recall the words of Bacon, "It was good that men in their innovations should follow the example of time itself, which indeed innovateth greatly, but quietly, and by degrees scarcely to be perceived."

It will ever remain incomprehensible that our generation, so great in its achievements of discovery, could be so low spiritually as to give up thinking.—Albert Schweitzer,

1929 Sports Writer Intrigued By Shively's Achievements

"Here's a man to write home about," a Kernel sports columnist observed 32 years ago this week. He was referring to young Bernie Shively, now UK athletic director.

Back in 1929 sportswriters considered Mr. Shively, then a UK football coach, the all-around campus athlete. And they had reason to.

Besides coaching football in the fall and spring, Mr. Shively spent the winter teaching boxing and wrestling, and topped the year off by coaching the UK track team.

The March 8, 1929 Kernel went on to list Mr. Shively's earlier achievements: he played college football with Red Grange at Illinois, and made the All-America college football team. Shively was also heavyweight wrestling champion of the Big 10 and was one of the best hammer-throwers and pole vaulters in the conference.

Another athlete in the news 32 years ago was Paul McBrayer, now basketball coach at Eastern State College, Richmond. In early March, 1929, McBrayer, UK varsity guard, was elected captain of the 1929-30 basketball team.

UK basketball fans, during this week in 1929 had just made their weary return from Georgia. The Bulldogs defeated the Wildcats 26-16 in the second game of the Southern Conference tournament.

Hopes were high that the 1930 tournament would be held in Lexington. As the Southern Conference Tournament had to be played on a neutral floor, UK's hopes depended on the completion of the new Transylvania gym. It was reported that it would hold 3,600 people.

The Kernel wasn't the only student publication on campus in 1929. It seems that UK had the Kampus Kat.

Sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism fraternity, the Kat was to include such noteworthy items as jokes, scandals, satire, and upside down pictures.

The Kampus Kat was UK's version of Mad Magazine.

School Spirit Questioned Over Championship Game

A student editor relinked the actions of a crowd of State men who "groaned" at the end of the championship State-Central basketball game here last Friday, 52 years ago. Final score, Central 26, Kentucky 20.

The editor of the Idea wrote in his March 4, 1909 paper "But why should we have given way to our feelings in this manner? What if the championship of Kentucky did depend on this game? We know it seemed hard to be defeated in the last few minutes of play; we know that we had been looking forward to this for the last two or three weeks, with an even chance that we would win it; we know that it was hard to lose after months of training, before the biggest crowd ever seen in the gymnasium." The editor went on to say that the students should be glad the team played their best against such fine opposition.

A broken basket caused the game to start late. The Cats jumped on top with two quick baskets; one by Captain Fox and the other by Post. The Danville lads soon caught up and for the remainder of the first half the teams traded baskets. When the whistle blew ending the first half the score was tied 13-13.

The second half was one sided—all for Central. In the last period the Cats failed to "throw" a basket. The now hated free throw provided the only hope for the Kentucky fans. Wayne Plummer fired in seven consecutive foul shots which accounted for all the Cat's scoring in the second half.

In reporting the game, the editor stated that Plummer undoubtedly played the best for UK. He was in the editor's opinion, the most scientific player ever seen at State and by his senior year should make the All-Southern team.

Wildcats Headed For NIT Tourney 12 Years Ago

Having won the Southeastern Conference crown for the sixth straight year Kentucky's eagles set their sights on the National Invitational Tournament in New York, 12 years ago this week.

Kentucky's Dixiecats carried a season record of 29 victories against one defeat into the tourney. The squads only setback came at the hands of St. Louis. The Wildcat five were scheduled to play the winner of the Loyola-CCNY game.

The Cats won their 11th SEC title by topping Florida, Auburn, Tennessee and Tulane. Running up an average of -73 points per game, compared with only 43 for their opponents. UK crushed Tulane 68-52 in the final game. Alex Groza tipped the net for 27 points in the championship game and a total of 94 for the tournament, both SEC records.

Wildcats selected on the All-Conference team were Groza, Ralph Beard and Wallace "Wah Wah" Jones.

Members of the WBKY staff worked all day installing a television set, which was loaned to the University for the SEC finals in Louisville.

Speaking of Louisville, the Kernel reported that the "Gateway to the South" would never be the same again. UK students really had themselves a ball during the SEC tourney held there.

Still covering the cage front of 49 Kentucky's Kittens scored their 14th consecutive win beating Ashland Junior College 77-48.

Getting into the intramural side of the sports scene Chi Omega finished first in a swimming meet held at the YWCA pool.

Football was also in the making 12 years ago this week. With more newcomers than veterans, spring football practice officially got under way. Head Coach Paul Bryant's go ahead signal set 83 grid-ers on to the practice field adjacent to Stoll Field.

PAGING the PAST Kernel Awarded $600; RIL Program Debated

While various students were debating the values of the University's Religion in Life Week at this season two years ago, Kernel staffers were popping with pride over winning two of the four first place awards, and $600 in prize money, for the December editorial campaign emphasizing highway safety.

The RIL program, aimed at informing students on problems of religion and its relation to personal, education, and world-wide matters, opened two years ago with a speech by UK President Frank G. Dickey. Seminars, speeches by prominent religious leaders, panel discussions, and classroom talks, all designed to bring religion closer to the student, were scheduled during the week.

The program had been criticized by students even before it began. A graduate student said, "I don't think it's worth a diddled damn. It's too superficial. When you're in college, you need depth in religion, not all this claptrap." On the other hand, some students praised RIL Week and pointed out its value in provoking discussion and thought.

As it turned out, the RIL program was not entirely successful. An average of only 15 students attended the planned meetings. Stuart D. Goldfarb, publicity chairman for the RIL program, commented, "Many students didn't seem to want to attend. Many seem scared of religion."

In this week in 1959 the Kernel was notified that it had won two of a possible four first-place awards in a national contest emphasizing highway safety. The paper received the $500 first prize for the best safety campaign of any of the 88 college dailies entered in the contest and $100 for the best feature story.

Lexington theater-goers had a pleasant week too. "Cyrano de Bergerac" opened at the Guignol Theatre Wednesday night. The performance by the Guignol Players, was called "delightful" by Nancy Meadows who reviewed the play for the Kernel.

At 11:20 Wednesday night, President Dickey and Dr. Meri Baker, director of the Kentucky Research Foundation, left Lexington for a three-week inspection tour of the University of Indonesia. They took with them a large imitation hypodermic needle for giving each other booster shots, a gift they had received at a bon-voyage party.

On Friday two years ago this week Coach Adolph Rupp was chosen "Coach of the Year" by United Press International in recognition of his 23-2 record for the season. At the same time, Johnny Cox, UK's high scoring senior, was elected to the Associated Press All-America first team.

The Dope Sheet

By Scottie Helt

Four years ago, a gallant band of Kentucky Wildcats emerged from virtual obscurity to achieve a record fourth NCAA title. The great comeback made by the 1960-61 Wildcat pack has been repeatedly compared with that 1957-58 squad.

NASH

ISHMAEL

A chance at a fifth tourney trophy is still possible—if the Cats can defeat Vanderbilt in a playoff Thursday and if they can add four victories in the big tourney.

In that same 1957-58 season, a Kentucky freshman team was being rated the equal of one of the Frank Ramsey-Chief Hagan era. Only one loss—a 90-88 setback imposed by the Evansville College frosh—scarred an otherwise perfect slate of 17 games.

Fans were of the opinion, "If Rupp can win the NCAA with that 'Fiddling Five' bunch, just wait until those guys are seniors. He'll murder 'em."

Those guys are seniors now—Bill Lickert, Ned Jennings, and Dick Parsons all remaining along with Carroll Burchett, now a junior who played only the second semester with that team—but the Cats haven't exactly murdered anybody.

Granted, they may yet get away with grand larceny if they can manage a theft of the NCAA prize. But, it has not been an easy road. And, the fact that the Cats haven't taken the NCAA crown since 1958 indicates that great optimism based on a good freshman team showing is not always warranted.

That 1957-58 Kitten contingent, just like this year's squad, virtually rewrote the frosh record book. Only a couple of times did an opponent even give the Kittens a close battle with the exception of the lone loss to Evansville.

All of this seemed evidence enough to label those Kittens as potential NCAA champion team builders. But, what everyone forgot was a lot can happen in four years.

A great mortality rate took its toll of team members.

Bobby Slusher and Howard Dardeen, both starters for Harry Lancaster, were forced to quit the team and, as it turned out, Dave Eakins and Kemuel Shipp could not make the grade.

Allen Hughes, a fine all-round athlete, chose an appointment to the Naval Academy over a chance to play at Kentucky. Tom Heilbron was not kept for varsity play, although since becoming one of the city's top independent ball players.

Just as in '58, fans are saying, "Just wait until next year . . . and the next . . . and the next . . . Coach Rupp will murder 'em with that bunch of freshmen."

Fans, beware! There's a great difference between freshman and varsity competition and fate can deal some damaging blows in a period of four years.

Cotton Nash, Ted Deeken, Tommy Harper, Charlie Ishmael and crew do rate as some of the country's top freshmen basketballers. But don't be rating them as varsity performers—yet. Don't handicap them by expecting them to reach the moon. They've hardly even gotten off the ground yet.

Cats To Be In Playoff

Ruppmen Tip Vols Behind Burchett

By SCOTTIE HELT

While Vanderbilt's Commodores were having little trouble sinking Georgia Tech at Nashville, Tenn., 79-59, Kentucky's Wildcats were getting their knocks across state at Knoxville, and had to go all out to garner a 68-61 win over scrappy Tennessee Saturday night.

Still, when the two contests were over the net result was the same. Kentucky and Vanderbilt had each earned a 10th Southeastern Conference win against four losses to tie for second place in the final SEC standings.

Mississippi State, 74-70 upset loser to Mississippi, picked up its second conference crown in three years but turned down an NCAA tournament bid because of the racial issue. The Maroons finished with an 11-3 league ledger.

Now, Kentucky and Vanderbilt must meet in Knoxville Thursday night to see which of the league runnerup clubs will represent the conference in NCAA play, and if past scores are any indication, NCAA officials won't know which SEC club to expect until the final seconds of the clash.

The neighboring state institutions have met twice on the basketball court this season with the two contests being decided by a total margin of only three points. The Commodores took the first encounter at Nashville, 64-62, to start a nightmare of three straight Kentucky losses in the conference. The Cats retaliated with a 60-59 triumph in Lexington—the high mark of their terrific comeback drive.

The Wildcat success string was run to nine straight, eight against SEC opposition at Knoxville where Bill Lickert, Carroll Burchett, Larry Pursiful, and Roger Newman took turns in coming up with the "big" play.

It was Burchett, red-head junior reserve from Fayette, who put the icing on the cake as he hit for eight of the last 10 Kentucky points to put the Cats away from the Vols after a 58-58 deadlock with only 3:46 left to play.

Lickert blasted out with another great first half getting 12 of his 14 total points in the first half. Jennings and Pursiful were their usual consistent selves, pitching in 18 and 15 points respectively while Newman chipped in with 11 points and backed up Jennings' game-high 13 rebounds with 11.

Burchett became the fifth Wildcat to achieve double figures, finishing with 10 points.

Frosh End Year On Losing Note

Despite a 32-point scoring effort by Tommy Harper, Kentucky's freshman basketballers suffered a 94-97 loss to the Tennessee Baby Vols at Knoxville, Tenn., Saturday in the season finale for both clubs.

The preliminary to the Kentucky-Tennessee varsity clash was sweet revenge for the Tennessee frosh who had been soundly beaten by the Kittens, 103-72, earlier in the season.

Free throw shooting gave the verdict to the Vols as they recorded 26 one-pointers in 39 tries while Kentucky tallied only 15 in 27 attempts. Referees called 25 personals on the Kittens, only 19 on the Baby Vols.

Couch Harry Lancaster's men had 36 field goals, two more than Tennessee, and outshot their hosts from the field with a 40.5 percentage.

Leading the Baby Vols to their 10th win against seven losses was Gene Pendleton, former Monticello All-Stater, with 25 points. Sid Elliott registered 24 for the winners.

Behind Harper in Kitten scoring were Cotton Nash with 19 points, Ted Deeken with 17, Tommy Gobel with 13, and George Critz with six.

The Kittens trailed at the half, 54-49 but caught up early in the second period and enjoyed a seven-point, 57-50 lead with 13:20 remaining. The Baby Vols went on top again six minutes later, 80-78, and never trailed again.

Gators Win In SEC; Catfish Take Sixth

Florida's Gators continued their domination of Southeastern Conference swimming by splashing to their sixth straight league title at Athens, Ga., over the weekend.

Coach Buddy Crone's mermen had little trouble picking up the school's 12th championship in the sport as they captured wins in 10 of the meet's 15 events.

Florida finished with a total point accumulation of 139, somewhat off the pace it set last year when it recorded 185 points.

Georgia surprisingly finished second to the Gators with 99 points. Georgia Tech was third with 74 points, Alabama fourth with 30 points, Tulane fifth with 29, Kentucky sixth with 24, and Vanderbilt seventh with only one point.

The perennial champions lost little time in deciding any question over Tech after Thursday night's opening action.

Eddie Reese, Florida, captured the 200-yard individual medley after posting a new record 2:13.6 in the trials, and Terry Reese, a Gator, took the only other Thursday event—the 1,500 meter marathon.

Only Kentucky points scored Thursday came when Skip Bailer earned three with a fourth in the 1,500.

Four more records fell Friday in the 20th renewal of the SEC meet. Reese took the 200-yard butterfly in a record 2:12 and Green, also of Florida, covered the 220-yard freestyle course in a new time of 2:12.2.

Georgia added its name to the record book twice Friday as Bulldog Charles Gentry lowered the 200-yard backstroke record to 2:16.1 and the Georgia 400-yard freestyle relay team recorded a new low of 3:30.6.

The meet's second day of action saw Kentucky's Tom Cambron register a fourth in the 200-yard butterfly and a sixth in the 200-yard breaststroke. Teddy Bondor placed third in the breaststroke, Milt Minor was fifth in one-meter diving, and the Wildcat 400-yard freestyle relay team tallied on a sixth-place finish.

The only record previously held by a Kentucky swimmer was the 220-yard freestyle time of 2:15.2 set by Paul Bollinger in 1951. Green's time Friday knocked three seconds off that mark.

Kentucky placements Saturday consisted of Bondor's fourth in the 100-yard breaststroke, Minor's fifth in three-meter diving, and the 400-yard medley relay team's sixth-place finish.

Dope Sheet

compiled by Nash included most points (476), most field goals (160), most field goal attempts (384), most free throws (156), most free throw attempts (298), most rebounds (293), and best rebound average (16.2).

Only season highs to escape betterment this year were Larry Pursiful's 1959 field goal percentage mark of 58.6, Dick Parsons' 87.5 free throw percentage of 1958, Bobby Slusher's personal fouls, charged against him in '58, and Johnny Cox's 1956, 32.2 scoring average.

Although not records, Nash also topped the club in personal fouls (60) and scoring average (26.4).

In Nash's debut as a Kitten, he broke three individual game records when he hit 28 of 30 free throws — 12 in succession — for single-game free throw, free throw attempts, and consecutive free throw marks. He tabbed 40 points in that game against the Lexington YMCA, a total equaled again against Tennessee's Baby Vols, for the highest Kitten scoring outburst in any game this season. The Kitten record of 40 is held by Cox.

A fabulous total of 36 rebounds were secured by Nash against Lees Junior College for another single-game record and his 17 field goals in the Kittens' first clash with Tennessee tied still another mark.

Five team records for a season were broken—field goals (1,547), free throws (362), free throw attempts (501), free throw percentage (72.2), and rebounds (1,121).

The 101 team rebounds pulled down against Lees was a new high for one game and the 119 points the Kittens scored against Lindsey Wilson Junior College at Somerset was record-high total for a UK fresh unit on a neutral court.

A couple of records were added this year which the team is not too proud of. Most opponent points ever recorded against a Kitten team (1,358), were tallied; the opponents tabbed a record 75.4 scoring average, and registered new highs of 869 rebounds and a 47.6 rebound average per game.

A record of two straight home losses also befell the 1960-61 Kittens.

Leading marksman for the Kittens was substitute George Waggoner with 13 bullseyes in 23 shots for a 56.5 percentage. Ishmael, who missed the last seven games because of scholastic deficiencies, hit at a 47.1 clip while Deeken fired at a 44.9 rate—tops among regulars to play the full season.

Deeken also topped the regulars in free throw accuracy, canning 60 of 72 charity tosses for an 83.3 mark. The former Flaget all-star was second in scoring to Nash with 320 points and a 17.7 average.

Harper finished in third place with a 16.7 average, followed by Ishmael (12.9), Tommy Gobel (8.5), George Critz (7.9), Paul Wyatt (4.3), Waggoner (2.1), Larry Wheeler (1.2), Delvin Sparrow (1.0), Bill White (1.0), and Bill Shaw (.4).

Wildcats Capture Playoff Berth

sonal foul trouble, failed to score as did substitutes Allen Feldhaus and Scotty Baehler.

Coach Johnny Sines relied on his guards to keep the SEC cellar-dwelling Vols in the game. Glenn Campbell and Bobby Carter were the only Tennesseans to notch double digits as they combined for 40 points. Campbell tabbed 22 and Carter 18.

With Lickert leading the way, the Wildcats opened up as if they were going to turn the contest into a rout. The All-SEC performer hit the game's first basket and with only 1:42 played, notched his second field goal for his 1,001st point, becoming the 11th Wildcat ever to reach the coveted 1,000-point mark.

At 12:46, Coach Adolph Rupp had his unit hitting on all cylinders with the Cats in front, 21-8. Then, the UK machine stalled and in less than five minutes Tennessee had cut the gap to 23-15.

A Kentucky spurt opened up a 31-21 advantage, but a closing Vol rally cut the margin to three, 33-32, with 1:30 left. Newman made it 37-32 with a fielder at 1:03, and Tennessee held the ball to play for one last shot before the half. Forward Dick Fisher missed the attempt.

The Vols kept pecking away at the Cats, who by this time were committing crucial floor errors, and finally caught them at 51-51 on Carter's jump shot with 10:49 left to play. Lickert's only points of the second half moved Kentucky back in front, but Eddie Test tied the count again.

A pair of free throws each by Newman and Orb Bowling fashioned a 54-54 tie. At this point, Jennings was banished from the game with his fifth personal and Burchett was waved in to start his heroics.

Cagy Carroll lost little time finding the range. After Pursiful's field goal broke the tie, Burchett hit a two-pointer for a four-point UK edge. Crips by Carter and Campbell knotted the count at 58-58.

Burchett nonchalantly hit two straight to open up another four-point margin. Pursiful made it 64-58 with 1:57 to go. Fisher tallied a free throw but Burchett hit a crip with 1:30 left and the Cats were on top, 66-59. Kentucky went into a stall before Burchett rang the bell again with 39 seconds left, and Ron Carmichael

Hutchinson, Baxter Shine

John Baxter and Tom Hutchinson, Kentucky trackmen, were individual standouts in the power-packed Western Michigan Relays at Kalamazoo, Mich., Saturday.

Baxter made the best Wildcat showing in the 20-team field with a close second in the mile on a time of 4:26.2.

Hutchinson reached six feet in the high jump to tie with Bowling Green's Dave Browning. Jim Oliphant of the host Western Michigan Brochies set a new meet record in the event to win, however, leaping 6-1½.

Western Michigan completely dominated the meet, sweeping seven first-place finishes to win the unofficial team title.

scored the last points for Tennessee.

Kentucky finished with a good 46.6 field goal accuracy mark, connecting on 27 of 58 heaves. Tennessee hit on only 25 of 69 shots for a 36.2 percentage. The Vols outrebounded the Cats, 43-39.

Bill "Big Dipper" Depp again was the big man for Vandy at Nashville where he threw in 17 points to lead a Commodore attack that listed four men in double figures. John Russell added 15, Larry Banks 13, and Don Ringstaff 12.

Roger Kaiser ended his brilliant career as a Georgia Tech Yellow Jacket with 21 points.

Vandy ended regular season tussling with a 19-4 overall record. Kentucky stands 17-7 against all foes.

747 Prep Students Enroll For Publication Clinic

A total of 747 Kentucky high school newspaper, and yearbook editors and their teachers have enrolled in the Kentucky High School Press Association publication clinic to be held Friday by the School of Journalism.

Dr. Niel Plummer, director of the school, said 525 students have registered for the newspaper sections and 222 for the yearbook sections, the largest preregistration in the history of the clinic.

Schools from as far West as Ballard Memorial High School at Barlow and as far East as Hazard High School will be represented. Fifty-three schools are sending delegates to the newspaper sections and 30 to the yearbook sections.

Seven hours of instruction will be given each hour from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. when the entire group will meet in Memorial Hall for an awards session. Awards given by Theta Sigma Phi and Sigma Delta Chi, women's and men's journalism honoraries, will be presented at the session for outstanding high school publications.

Booth Is Building

DENVER (AP)—The Colorado Supreme Court has ruled that a telephone booth is a building. A man had appealed his conviction on a charge of breaking into the coin box of a booth.

This couldn't be burglary, he argued, because a telephone booth isn't a building. The court's opinion said: "A building is a structure which has the capacity to contain man or animals or habitation or shelter."

'Hedda Gabler' On TV Knight Time Too Much For 'Richard III' Actor

NEW YORK (AP) — The off-Broadway hit "Hedda Gabler" has been bought for display on pay television in Canada.

The production is the third New York show taped by International Telemeter Corp., which is conducting a test of pay TV in 6,000 homes near Toronto.

Previously recorded were Gian-Carlo Menotti's "The Consul" with Patricia Newey and a City Center cast; and "The Country Scandal," starring Franchot Tone and Mal Zetterling.

A battle among 16 soldiers fighting with swords resulted in one casualty here Thursday night.

The Marquis of Dorset was slightly injured below his left eye when the sword of a soldier he had just stabbed to death scraped his cheek.

The accident occurred during the final battle scene of the Guignol play, "Richard III."

Doug Roberts, playing the part of the soldier, saw blood flowing from the Marquis (Irwin Pickett), during the next performance.

but could not aid him because Roberts had just been killed in the battle.

Members of the cast by this time were aware of the accident but were unable to leave the stage because of curtain calls.

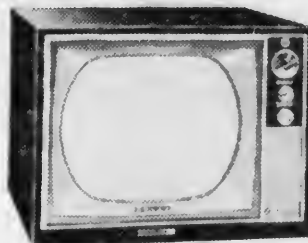

The injury was slight so Pickett wore a band-aid, not yet invented during the time the play portrays, during the next performance.
